USACE Galveston's management analysis officer named VIP Member of the Year

GALVESTON, Texas (March 10, 2011) – Killeen native, Patricia I. McDonald, a management analysis officer with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Galveston District, was named a VIP Member of the Year by the Cambridge Who's Who® among Executives, Professionals and Entrepreneurs.

"We are extremely proud of Pat's accomplishments," said Beverly J. Martin, chief of USACE Galveston's Resource Management Office. "This recognition further solidifies the confidence we have in our employees to deliver outstanding services for our nation."

McDonald was chosen based on a culmination of awards received, years of professional service in her field, education attained and professional certifications earned. She is a member of the American Society of Military Comptrollers and National Contract Management Association.

"Each year, Cambridge Who's Who recognizes members who stand out among their peers and colleagues for many reasons," said Sheryl Pernick, account director for premier membership services with Cambridge Who's Who®. "They may be honored for awards and honors they have received, their years of dedication and service to their industry, outstanding leadership skills, day-to-day performance, or any mixture of the above."

The Cambridge Who's Who publishes the results in hard copy and electronically online.
